“MANY HANDS MAKE LIGHT WORK”

INTRODUCTION

Mission

The Georgia Black Doula Network, GBDN, is a vital initiative launched by the Atlanta Doula Collective, Inc. in 2024, targeting healthcare deserts and focusing on providing essential support to Black and Indigenous communities, by increasing the local doula workforce and promoting its long-term sustainability. As maternal health in the South, particularly for Black women, reaches a crisis point due to restrictive policies undermining reproductive rights, the GBDN is committed to improving maternal health outcomes for these underserved communities..

With a focus on making a positive impact, we invites others to join us in a commitment to supporting Georgia families.

Sekeza Berry, F.D.

Event Highlight

- Educational training sessions.
- Innovation and research findings.
- Healing and restorative practices.
- Call to action to support community based care.

Community

By becoming a corporate sponsor, your company demonstrates a deep commitment to the Georgia Black Doula Network (GBDN) and our mission. This partnership not only fosters a strong connection between your organization and GBDN, but also unites you with a community of like-minded professionals, caregivers, and partners who share a passion for creating positive change.

Since its inception, GBDN has established itself as a vital community anchor and a driving force in workforce development, serving hundreds of individuals across Georgia annually. Acknowledging the pivotal role doulas play in enhancing maternal health outcomes, we are thrilled to host our inaugural conference. This event promises a comprehensive day of education, innovation, and connection, bringing together over 100 stakeholders from diverse communities across Georgia to spark meaningful action, support the perinatal workforce, and foster collaborative partnerships.
